Multifunctional utility machines from Egholm

- can do more than you think

Egholm utility machines offer true multifunctionality. Both in the variety of applications and in the quality of the work results. A total of 45 different attachments are available for the three machine types, the Park Ranger 2150, City Ranger 2260 and City Ranger 3070, for all year-round use.

Thanks to a unique connection system, the user can change a wide variety of attachments, in the shortest possible time, without tools and adapt the machine again and again to numerous applications, such as sweeping, mowing, vacuuming leaves, trimming hedges, clearing snow, or spreading salt. But special tasks are also covered with the extensive range of attachments, for example, a weed brush, lawn edger, environmental rake, tipping shovel, tipper trailer, snow blower or snow plough. You no longer need to purchase a large number of special devices, when your tasks change.

The attachments have been specially developed by Egholm to meet the needs of users for all year-round use and are optimally adapted to the technical setup of the utility machines. There is no need for laborious disassembly and assembly, or fine adjustment, of hydraulic connections and system settings. The demands on meeting work results are just as high as those on single-purpose machines.

The utility machines are also ideal for use on streets and sidewalks as well as in parks and outdoor areas. Standard advantages such as articulated steering, permanent 4-wheel drive, powerful working hydraulics, a low center of gravity and very small turning circles, enable a full range of industries, including, construction, industrial, municipal, retail, educational, etc., to use it flexibly and safely at any time of the year.
